Life Is a Journey

Life is a journey; it begins as a mystery
Each step an experience, always something to learn.
So many new faces go by in a flash -
Today they're realities; tomorrow fond memories.
You reach out to others - begin to explore,
You learn to be a part of many things,
And you leave so many things behind,
Part of yourself stays and part of you goes,
So begin this very moment and don't look back.
There's so much to be lived - so much to enjoy;
Things to remember and things to forget.
Through smiles and tears
We must keep moving along,
But stop now and then to remember ...

What is a teacher?

A smile in homeroom?

A loud voice in typing class?

A new idea about Shakespeare?

Not really,

A teacher is a person.

What kind of person?

A friend?

An enemy?

A patient sigh that says

"Let's go over it once more."?

All of these are possibilities,

But the real meaning of 'teacher'

is sometimes hidden,

After all, a teacher is what you let him be.

JOURNEY

Under a sheet of darkness a road appears with many paths.
Which will you choose?

Within you
the power to shine
and light the way down your chosen path.

A few steps to either side determines your joy or misery.
Keep to the middle until you know,
which path is right for you.

Determination is what you'll need.
Attain this and win
a future of happiness.

SPORTS

Life is like a race, faster, harder ...

Life is like a basketball game,
With players and rules never the same,
With different faces coming each year,
And victories which always seem near.

Each team takes its turn going down in defeat.
And learning to lose is a challenge to meet.
Life too is made up of ups and downs.
We learn to meet these with smiles, not frowns.

Life is a game in which all must take part
Which should be faced with love in one's heart.
It's how you accept what comes your way
That makes a winner, whatever the play.

SENIORS

They ask you where you're going,
But do you really know?
The first or final step is the hardest,
Giving up the familiar things,
Exploring the vast unknown ---

They ask you where you're going,
How can they expect a reply?
In a world filled with so many questions,
But never quite enough answers,
Why must you be forever searching?

They ask you where you're going,
Do you think you'll ever really know?
Will there always be doubts and questions
When there should be 'peace-of-mind'.
How will you ever find life?

The answer is try ...

LIFE ...

Life is an eternal existence that never seems to end
It is a world of sorrow which holds no place for happiness
It is an unending battle that has no victor
Life is a lonely, long journey if you walk it
alone ...

Life is a counterpart of Love
It is the realization that no "man is an Island"
It is a cry for help when there is none to be found Life is a long journey
when you walk it alone.

Life is Love!
 Love is a breath of fresh air in a world choked by pollution
 Love is the need of someone to make your life complete Love is a journey that can't be walked alone.

Love is a true friend
 A friend is one who helps you reach for the stars even though you both know you'll never make it.
 A friend makes your problems fade ...
 Life is a lonely, long
 journey if you walk it
 alone.

Doors-where do they lead?
To the future?
To the past?
Open them and see.

Heaven-Paradise
Synonyms of beauty
But the road is long.

Time rolls on swiftly
Traveling the Universe to Infinity.

Books - doors to knowledge
Some know the combination
Others are not lucky.

As people rush by
It seems such a waste of time
Pleasure means much more.

Golden, yellow sun
Never sets in our hearts
We can not let it.

The real silver, gold
Our riches are our memories
We have nothing else.

Work-necessity
Freedom-happiness
Which is the better?

It's often a smile from someone who's near you.
A cheery hello from a friend.
A favor done out of nothing
but kindness.
And the songs of the birds;
the wind blowing through the trees.
One little flower, standing bravely alone, yet showing the delicate beauty of God.
It's realizing the joy of giving; the joy of having friends.
It's a colorful hillside set against the clear blue sky.
The waving tail of a kite on a windy day.

The bubbling of a nearby stream; the continuous gushing of a waterfall. It's the beauty of the sun against an orange and yellow sky. The sound of seagulls flapping their wings; waves slapping against the shore. The quiet of a church; the feeling of inner peace. The smell of flowers, grass, grass, and trees; the feeling of being part of this greatness. And because of this God gave us these things. This is LOVE! And LIFE revolves around LOVE!

JOY ...

Joy, in my point of view,
is something wonderful,
something new.
A song of a bird,
Someone's kind word,
The meadow green and the sky so blue.

The pleasing laughter of a gay little child,
A mating call, low and wild,
The dancing kite
Merry and light!
A tender lullaby, sweet and mild.

Some day
I will smile at you ...
Remembering the good--
Only the good ...
I will laugh with you
Some day.

Those golden years,
 Sweet, tender, romantic, desperate years.
 Was it yesterday when I stood Bewildered in these foreign halls?
 Or, was it the day before?
 Reach out to the knowledge, the growth
 Of our minds and bodies;
 Spirit, laughter, excitement
 Of those fleeting years!

The timid Freshmen - hesitant to approach his first assembly,
 The awkward Sophomore - shrinking from a Senior's gaze, The audacious Junior - boldly attempting proms and campaigns, Finally, the reminiscient Senior - remembering "when."

Will we cling despondently to the enticing past,
 Or eagerly embrace the challenge which lies 'ahead?
